

In this group lesson, students can come in knowing little or nothing about music and the guitar and leave having learned some fun melodies and songs to play! We'll build the foundation along the way with technique, note-reading, and music theory while keeping in mind that we learn those elements so that we can better play and enjoy music! Each lesson will have group-oriented time as well as individual "check-ins" with Chris to ensure each guitarist stays on track.

Note about tuition: Tuition for this class reflects its unique format, which is halfway between a private lesson and a class. Although it has course content like a class, each student receives personal attention from the instructor each week in the class and via email. Students will progress as if taking private lessons while benefiting from a group experience and a lower fee than a private lesson rate.
